The space occupied by the statue is paper and the confidence of the Parkly in Nassau street and partly within the presses for the Tribune Build. partly in Nassau street and partly within the "house lines" of the Tribune Building. As a projection beyond the house line it was an "obstruction," as defined by an order issued by George McAneny as President of the Board of Aldermen two years ago. To comply with the order the Tribune Association has several changes to make along its street line. It cannot do this, according to a statement printed yesterday, until the city authorities fix a new situation for would have entailed as
